

Hunger Free

“Waste Less. Feed More.”

Project Overview

Food wastage is a serious social challenge where large amounts of edible food are discarded while many people continue to go hungry. This project aims to reduce food waste by connecting surplus food sources with people and organizations in need, ensuring that excess food is used for social good instead of being wasted.

Objectives

- Reduce unnecessary food wastage
- Connect food donors with NGOs efficiently
- Enable quick and reliable food distribution
- Encourage community participation and responsibility
- Maintain social balance through sharing

Process Flow

1. Donors donate surplus food from hotels, restaurants, or households.
2. NGOs review and accept the food donation request.
3. Volunteers are assigned to collect and deliver the food.
4. The food reaches needy people safely and on time.

Impact

Needy people receive food and support, helping to reduce hunger in the community. Food wastage is minimized, and donors, NGOs, and volunteers are rewarded for their contribution. This system promotes social responsibility, community involvement, and helps maintain a balanced and compassionate society.
